Outdoor enthusiasts headed east might be used to making a beeline for the Outer Banks, but tucked away on the banks of the Pasquotank River is charming Elizabeth City — an ideal stop and a stellar weekend destination in its own right. From state parks to harbor tours — and with plenty of opportunities for kayaking, cycling, birding, fishing, and camping in between — this town is the perfect place to explore on water and land. Plus, in the evenings, the downtown district blends historic charm with trendy restaurants and bars to provide some welcome post-adventure relaxation. -Nicknamed the Harbor of Hospitality, Elizabeth City is a beautiful waterfront town full of local flavor and fascinating history. A three-hour drive from Raleigh and an hour inland from Nags Head and Duck, Elizabeth City should certainly be on your radar for outdoor fun. Time to head for the harbor.

You can rent a kayak at The Pelican Marina and head for one of the many paddling trails. A leisurely trip will take you down the river, into serene offshoots, and beneath tree canopies. Some of the trails are officially part of the NC Birding Trail, but you're almost guaranteed to spot birds and other wildlife on any path you choose. "We have a lot of slow-moving creeks and rivers that are good paddling, especially in the spring and fall," Powell says. "Paddlers will see bald eagles, lots of osprey, otters, and cypress and gum swamp forests with Spanish Moss. (<https://www.ourstate.com/an-outdoor-lovers-guide-to-adventure-in-elizabeth-city/>)
