This is truly one of the prettiest undeveloped waterfront properties I have ever stepped on and has an unbelievable amount of potential. Bath became North Carolina's first town in 1705 and is full history. Bath was also a stop for Edward Teach, better known as the pirate "Blackbeard", on a regular basis. Bath is a beautiful little Eastern NC town, which is full of charm and great people. The streets are quiet and there are many gorgeous waterfront homes in Bath and the surrounding areas.
